Columbia Business School Alumni

Social Enterprise Program

www.gsb.columbia.edu/socialenterprise

Alumni of the Social Enterprise Program create a significant impact in our community and around the world. Here are some recent graduates:

Nonprofit and Public Management

Debra Kurshan '07, Director of Facilities and Opportunities

New York City Department of Education provides system-wide services, including academic standard-setting, student placement, school funding and teacher recruiting.

Rod Washington '04, Chief People Development Officer

The New Leaders for New Schools aims to transform urban schools nationally by selecting and training passionate and driven individuals to become urban public school principals.

David Zapol '06, Consultant

Foundation Strategy Group accelerates the pace of social progress by providing advice, ideas and methods of action to foundations, corporations, governments and nonprofits.

Maddy Tregidga Neuberger '05, Consultant

The Bridgespan Group is a consulting organization bringing leading-edge strategies and tools to nonprofit organizations and foundations.

Joshua Gelfman '06, Assistant Vice President

NYC Economic Development Corporation promotes economic growth in New York City through real estate development programs, business incentives and more.

Reemah Sen '97, Senior Consultant

Robin Hood targets poverty in New York City by finding and funding the best and most effective programs and partnering with them to maximize results.

International Development

Casey Albert '06, Strategic Planning Consultant

The Institute for OneWorld Health develops safe, effective and affordable new medicines for people with infectious diseases in the developing world.

Larry Brooks '05, Director of Finance and Administration

Endeavor transforms the economies of emerging markets by identifying and supporting high-impact entrepreneurs.

Tricia Morente '07, Acumen Fund Fellow

Acumen Fund is a nonprofit global venture fund that uses entrepreneurial approaches to solve the problems of global poverty.

Myka Reinsch '02, Director

Freedom from Hunger offers sustainable self-help solutions to fight chronic hunger and poverty in 17 countries.

Shervin Setareh ’06, Associate

Dalberg is an international consulting firm that provides advice in the areas of globalization and sustainable international development to clients in the public, private and nonprofit sectors.

Camilla Nestor ’02, Director of Capital Management and Advisory Center

Grameen Foundation USA combines the power of microfinance, technology and innovative solutions to defeat global poverty.

Corporate Social Responsibility & Sustainability

Rohit Aggarwala ’00, Director

New York City’s Office of Long-term Planning and Sustainability coordinates and oversees efforts to develop and implement a strategic vision for the City’s future.

Michael Grunow ’05, Renewable Energy Leadership Program

GE Wind, part of GE, helps its worldwide partners and customers design and implement wind energy solutions.

Jonathan Rappe ’06, Associate

EcoSecurities is in the business of sourcing, developing and trading emission reduction credits.

Jane Kearns ’01, Vice President of Business Development

Clean Energy Development helps residential and commercial developers, builders, owners, consultants and contractors to integrate today’s most energy efficient components into their projects.

Liz Maw ’01, Executive Director

Net Impact is an international nonprofit organization that makes a positive impact on society by growing and strengthening a community of new leaders who use business to improve the world.

Social Entrepreneurship

Wanja Michuki ’02, Owner

The Highland Tea Company supports the economic development of local tea farmers by distributing Kenyan premium teas all over the world.

Noha Waibsnaider ’02, Founder and CEO

Peeled Snacks facilitates healthy living with food made of natural, premium ingredients.

Ron Gonen ’04, Managing Director

Recyclebank provides communities with a cost effective and environmentally conscious solution to the rising cost of waste collection.

Andrea Wenner ’05, Founder and Executive Director

Out2Play is a nonprofit organization dedicated to building and refurbishing playgrounds throughout the New York City public school system.

Ben Powell ’05, Managing Partner

Agora Partnerships assists outstanding entrepreneurs with the launching and financing of small companies that have high growth potential.

Sara Green ’01, Executive Director

Art for Refugees in Transition is a curriculum-based program that encourages the revitalization of traditional artistic practices among refugee populations.